

LIVE FROM STUDIO 8 Digging Archaeology

Provided by the University of Florida

LATEST NEWS

Plastics Ingredients Could Make a Boy's Play Less Masculine

Study links boys' fetal phthalate exposure to tendency toward gender-neutral play later on.

Study Links Genetic Variation to Individual Empathy, Stress Levels

Researchers have discovered a genetic variation that may contribute to how empathetic a human is, and how that person reacts to stress.

Penguins and Sea Lions Help Produce New Atlas

Recording hundreds of thousands of individual uplinks from satellite transmitters fitted on penguins, albatrosses, sea lions, and other marine animals, researchers have released the first-ever atlas of the Patagonian Sea.

80 BEATS - Andrew Moseman
Extinct Goat Tried out Reptilian, Cold-Blooded Living (It Didn't Work)

DISCOBLOG - Brett Israel
In Antarctica, Drilling for... 100-Year-Old Whiskey?

NOT EXACTLY ROCKET SCIENCE
- Ed Yong
Elephants and Humans Evolved Similar Solutions to Problems of Gas-guzzling Brains

SCIENCE INSIDER - Eli Kintisch
"But Your Dad's a Science Teacher"

WIRED SCIENCE - Bruce Bower,
Science News
Size and Strength Not a Mate-Choice Factor for Everyone

NEW TODAY ON Science360 RADIO

Earth&Sky

Transforming the U.S. Electric Grid Into a Smart Grid

Provided by Earth and Sky, Inc.

StarStuff

Mystery Supernova Made to Measure

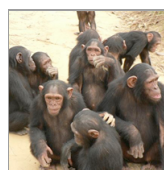

Provided by Australian Broadcasting Company Newsradio

Armed with Science

Joint Typhoon Warning Center - Tropical Weather Support

Provided by the U.S. Department of Defense

PICTURE OF THE DAY What Are Your Intentions?

TODAY'S EXCLUSIVE Following the Adventurous Ant Trail

Images and multimedia on this Web site are subject to copyright. For permissions and rights-related questions, please email editor@science360.gov